

Solo saxophone accompanying poets David Meltzer and Julie Rogers

Zan provides solo accompaniment to works by David Meltzer, an acclaimed San Francisco Beat poet and author of many books, including “When I Was a Poet” (City Lights) and “No Eyes: Lester Young” (Black Sparrow), and the noted poet Julie Rogers, author of “House of the Unexpected” (Wild Ocean). The performances include solo renditions of various tunes and improvised accompaniment to the poets’ readings of their works. This particular combination of words and music is something extraordinary, engaging both the participants and the audience.

In addition to performances/readings, the three are available for classes and lectures; Zan covers a variety of non-fiction, David and Julie cover poetry and creative writing. Contact Zan for details and/or visit David’s and Julie’s web sites: meltzerville.com; julrogers.com.
